LARGE CROWD HEARD HORNER ON SATURDAY

Dedication of State Garage Was Attended By State Officials

Before more than two thousand people who gathered to hear him, Governor Henry Horner delivered the principal address dedicating the new state highway department building here Saturday afternoon.

Accompanying the governor to Dixon for the ceremony were several highway department officials. They included Ernst Lieberman, state highway engineer, Ralph Ferris, architect of the building, Lynn Smith, business manager of the highway department, and John Casey, superinterdent of the machinery division. They were welcomed by the Honorable John P. Devine, speaker of the Illinois House of Representatives, who was largely responsible for securing the new building for Dixon and Mayor William V. Slothower, together with other city officials.

Following a brief con[illegible] the Dixon Civic band, and [illegible] introductory remarks by the [illegible] officials, Mayor William [illegible] ower in a very nice talk [illegible] duced Speaker Devine, who, in turn, presented the governor.

No Credit Asked.

Governor Horner said no credit was asked by any state official, including himself, for the construction of the building. He claimed credit was due only those who helped build, down to the laborers who laid the bricks and hauled the stone. He said Dixon got the building because Dixon was entitled to it. He reviewed Dixon's century of existence and lauded the spirit of the pioneers who built the community to a position where it could be considered geographically important enough to command attention in asking for a building like the highway structure.

"The building represents employment in phases not so apparent in numbers. It represents not only those employed in building the structure but those who were employed hauling in the material, fashioning the steel and cutting the stone and those employed on the railroads that hauled in the materials.

"In building this structure the administration is trying to measure up to the responsibilities it owes Illinois."

In this connection Governor Horner also referred to the improvements now begun at the Dixon State Hospital which houses charges of the state and is supported by tax money. He also referred to the attempts of the administration to end pollution of Rock river and other Illinois waterways, stressing the importance of sewage disposal plants.

Part of General Plan.

"This is only part of a general plan for the state," he continued. "We have the best highway department we ever had. Police are more efficient. And we have over 1400 miles of new paved roads. It can never be said that I have paved a mile of political road, however.

The governor raised the subject of the three per cent sales tax.

"All arguments against the sales tax are pure deception," he insisted.

"I promised to relieve the tax burden of the state when elected and have kept my promise. I not only reduced the obnoxious state real estate tax but I abolished it for the first time in the history of Illinois."

He pointed out that taxes are necessary to run government. He declared the sales tax had reduced the state debt. Governor Horner listed what he considered benefits accrued from the sales tax. They were the ability of the state to feed the poor, the abolition of bond issues, the balancing of the budget, and increased financial aid for education in Illinois.

Offer No Substitute.

"No legislator opposing the sales tax has ever offered and substitute," said Governor Horner, "nor have they offered to replace it with the old real estate tax. For education, the sales tax has increased aid by over $30,000,000. Before 1933 only $27,000,00[illegible] was allotted education over a four year period. Now [illegible] schools get their support in [illegible]h every month."

The gas tax, Governor Horner said, was needed to build the secondary road system as well as maintenance of concrete highways. He claimed a survey for the purpose is now being developed.

The speaker concluded by praising the Roosevelt administration for attempting to lead us out of the depression and the Illinois legislature for assisting national ad-

THREE HURT IN AUTO CRASH ON R. FALLS ROAD

Leo Devine, Lawrence Shauff and George Butterfield, all residents of the vicinity of Deer Grove south of Rock Falls, narrowly escaped death last evening about 6:20 when the Ford roadster in which they were coming to Dixon on the Rock Island road, crashed into the steel bridge just east of the Nelson road and was demolished. Devine and Butterfield were thrown through the top of the car a distance of about 25 feet, while Shauff was pinned beneath the wrecked machine.

Leo Drew of Nelson was the first to reach the scene after the crash and he sped to Nelson and obtained assistance. Returning to the scene, Shauff was removed from beneath the car and all three were rushed to the Katherine Shaw Bethea hospital. Reports from the attending physician this afternoon indicated that Devine had sustained a fracture of the skull, the left shoulder was fractured and he was suffering from other bruises about the body, and was the worst injured of the trio. Shauff was suffering from concussion of the brain and numerous cuts and bruises. It was feared that he had also sustained a skull fracture. Butterfield was bruised about the body and sustained minor cuts, and was expected to be able to leave the hospital this afternoon.

The three young men had driven from Deer Grove to Rock Falls and were coming toward Dixon on the Rock Island road, en route to Amboy to attend a dance. All were riding in the seat of the roadster, when it crashed into the steel guard rails on the Hollenbeck bridge, just east of the Nelson corners. Devine was driving his own car which was practically demolished.

REACTION TO TRADE TREATY IS WATCHED

Conflicting Views Are Seen On Canada-U. S. Pact

Washington, Nov. 18—(AP)—The Canadian-American Trade Treaty's provision for a 50 per cent reduction in duties on Canadian lumber was described y spokesmen for the lumber industry today as "paralyzing to the general economy of important parts of the country."

"It holds a threat of disaster to wage earners in large sections of the United States," added officials of the National Lumber Manufacturers' Association.

They declined to be quoted by name or to say whether a test of the Reciprocal Tariff Act, under which the treaty was negotiated, is a possibility.

The treaty details were being studied by politicians as well as business interests affected. Some talked privately of the possibility that the treaty might become an issue in the 1936 presidential campaign. This would depend on whether or to what extent western lumber, dairy and cattle interests battle the treaty provisions as opposed to their interests.

Representative Church (R-Ill.) said the pact "will help destroy our protective tariff system and let in large quantities of foreign products, including agricultural products."

Another Republican, Representative Brewster of Maine, contended the duty reduction on Canadian seed potatoes contradicted a presidential promise.

Representatives of some Florida fruit growers already are planning to attack the law in the courts. They contend they have been affected adversely by the Cuban-American treaty negotiated under it.

The lumber association officials said restrictions the Canadian treaty places on imports of Douglas firm and western hemlocks, under which the reduced duty would apply to only 250,000,000 feet of lumber, are "strictly meaningless." They added the entire program was" a blow to forest conservation in the United States."

SANCTIONS IN EFFECT TODAY TO CURB ITALY

Economic Boycott Unprecedented Action

London, Nov. 18.—(AP)—League of Nations economic sanctions, approved by 51 nations, took effect against Italy today in an unprecedented effort to force a halt to war.

These nations virtually severed financial and trading relations with the invaders of Ethiopia, pledging themselves to exclude Italian goods from their markets and to cease supplying Italy with a selected list of raw materials.

Theoretically, the economic blockade was imposed at one minute after midnight, legal aspects delayed slightly.

Portugal Is First

Portugal took the lead, closing its frontiers to Italian goods and halting export of raw materials which might be used for warfare as early as Saturday.

France, faced a possible delay in enforcement of economic sanctions, but this apparently was reduced, if not eliminated, by publication yesterday of boycott decrees.

These decrees, set forth in the official journal, forbade importation of all Italian goods except money, gold, silver, books, newspapers, maps and music into France and its territories.

Exportation of raw materials such as iron, tin, nickel, manganese, rubber and aluminum likewise were prohibited, with a check on trade to be maintained by licensing of importers and exporters.

Some Delay In France

The French frontier theoretically was closed to Italian goods at midnight, but just when the sanctions could be enforced practically remained in doubt. The law is applied in each department only when a copy of the official journal, publishing the decree, reaches the prefectual.

Premier Pierre Laval, foreseeing counter-measures by Italy, waited to estimate the effect of loss of Italy's trade on French commerce.

Great Britain, whose Geneva delegate, Anthony Eden, led the campaign for sanctions, strengthened its customs organization in a special watch, maintained over all ports, for Italian consignment. Britain's far-flung dominions and colonies co-operated to see that there were no gaps in the Empire's sanctions barriers against the warring Fascist nation.

Austria, Hungary and Albania all held firmly to their determination not to apply economic pressure, although Austria emphasized that it was conciliatory toward the great powers oposing Italy's Ethiopian campaign.

Germany did not participate officially in the economic blockade, having left the league, but it had placed an embargo on export of foodstuffs and raw materials against all nations on grounds of home necessity.

Ashton Man Seeks Annullment of His Marriage to Girl

Albert W. Haenitsch of Ashton has filed a divorce action in the Circuit Court in which he seeks the nullification and dissolvement of his marriage to Janet Fordham Haenitsch of this city on May 21 of this year. In the petition he asks the court to dissolve the marriage and to appoint a guardian for the wife with whom he has never lived, stating that she was 16 years of age at the date of the marriage. In his petition he charges that his wife made false representations as to her physical health and obtained a warrant for his arrest preceding their marriage, which proved to be deceitful statements.

Mrs. Mildred Hill has also filed a suit for divorce from Dayton Hill, charging extreme and repeatedly cruelty. The couple were married at Woodstock, Ill., Feb. 11, 1930. In her petition she requests an order of the court permitting her to resume her maiden name, Mildred Willstead.

High Speed Driving Is Blamed For Smash Fatal to Two

Belleville, Ill., Nov. 18—(AP)—City Judge W. G. Mitchell of West Frankfort, Ill., and another man were dead and four persons were suffering today from injuries received in a head-on automobile collision.

Judg Mitchel, 45, and Dr. Frederick D. Halsey, 56, negro, federal veterinarian at the East St. Louis National Stockyards, were killed yesterday when Mitchell's car and one driven by Miss Ruth Brinkley, 35, East St. Louis negro school teacher, crashed on a sharp curve south of here.

Miss Brinkley, with whom Dr. Halsey was riding, suffered a fractured leg. She told state highway patrolmen the car driven by Judge Mitchell was traveling at high speed on the wrong side of the road.

Mitchell, who had been city judge for 8 years, was active in state Republican politics. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Myrtle Mitchell, and two daughters.

Dr. Halsey had been employed at the National Stock Yards for 23 years. The injured were brought to a hospital here.

The charred body of Cooney, former odd job man at the city jail, was found in the ruins of the shed after a neighbor told policemen Cooney often slept there. The officers said the body was almost covered by coal.

Mrs. M. T. Sowers, occupant of the property on which the shed was located, told firemen two old stoves and some coal was all she knew was in the shed.

Italians Of The State Starting War Relief Fund

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 18—(AP)—Italians of this vicinity today started raising funds for war relief work in Ethiopia at the request of Dr. Mario Carosi, new Italian consul general of Chicago.

Defending Italy's invasion of the African nation, Dr. Carosi told more than 1,000 Italians yesterday that money was needed to care for crippled soldiers.

"Italy's economic insufficiency and the present world-wide immigration barriers because of the current unemployment situation are responsible for the Italians' colonial expansion in Africa," the counsul general said.

He said Italy seeks only to take its own culture and civilization into Ethiopia.

WINTER GALE WREAKS HAVOC ON EAST COAST

Called Worst Blow in 20 Years and Damage Great

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

The worst nor'easter in many years roared out to sea today after pounding the North Atlantic coast with devastating fury from Cape Cod to Cape Hatteras.

Seaboard states from Maine to North Carolina suffered property damage mounting into several million dollars. The brunt of the havoc was borne by the stretch from the Massachusetts cape down to the Virginia cape.

The freighter Florida reached safe anchorage in Hampton Roads, accompanied in the coast guard cutter, Eebago. The ship was badly battered by the heavy seas running yesterday and last night.

The cutter then went to the aid of the three-master Lillian E. Kerr, in trouble off Cape Henry with a shifting cargo. The schooner was anchored two miles offshore. The cutter planned to tow her into port.

The crippled freighter Hartwelson, under convoy of two rescue ships, was proceeding safely toward Deleware breakwater. A sailor was washed to his death from the freighter.

At Keyport, N. J., a dockworker was blown into Raritan Bay and drowned.

At least 25 persons were killed in automobile mishaps; five in New Jersey, 17 in Pennsylvania and three in New York.

High tide caused most of the property damage. The Jersey coast, playground of the east, was a dismal stretch of wreckage.

Sections of New York's waterfront were inundated by a tide running five feet above normal.

Early today, the nor'easter swerved out to sea. The wind changed to the northwest. The center of the storm was whirling out into the Atlantic, south of Nantucket.

Boston's shipping was still tied up with only one steamer docking. A fishing vessel reported losing a number of her crew.

The 20,000-ton Scythia, from Liverpool and Cob with 200 passengers for New York and Boston, waited 24 miles east of Boston Light for better weather before entering the harbor.

By The Associated Press

A million-dollar gale roared northeastward today after battering the Atlantic coast from North Carolina to Maine.

New Jersey and the southern shore of Long Island suffered most as waves and flood tides described as the worst in 20 years hammered the coast both south and east of New York yesterday.

Two 3,000-ton freighters—the Florida and Hartwelson — were crippled and sent calls for aid; numerous smaller craft were cast aground while one tug and its tow

JAPANESE TO CREATE NORTH CHINA NATION

95,000,000 People in Provinces To Be Severed

Tokyo, Nov. 18—(AP)—Japanese dispatches from Peiping and Tientsin unanimously and unreservedly announced tonight that a new nation, that of North China, will be born this week.

These dispatches, by the Rengo agency among others, state that the new nation, like Manchoukuo, will be created under the protection of Japan's mighty military machine which the Chinese National Government at Nanking is powerless to oppose.

It seems likely that five more provinces of China would follow the fate of the four Manchurian provinces which at present [illegible] pan's protectorate, [illegible] Manchoukuo.

Rengo and the newspaper Asahi confidently predicted that the declaration of independence would come Nov. 20, while the newspaper Nichi Nichi says it will come Nov. 23. It was stated that the new nation will be made up of Hopeh, Shantung, Shansi, Chahar, and Suiyuan provinces.

Ninety-fice Millions

The population of these five provinces totals approximately 95,000,000 persons.

If and when this population becomes a Japanese protected community like Manchoukuo's 32,000,000 inhabitants, it will men that Japan has been instrumental in wresting from Chinese sovereignty an aggregation of humanity approximately equal to the population of the United States.

A foreign office spokesman conceled a possibility of Japanese military interventian if the central Chinese government sent troops to suppress the independent movement.

Vernacular newspaper dispatches from Tientsin, Hopeh province, said the framework of a new North Central government was already arranged.

The spokesman asserted armed intervention in the crisis would be warranted if Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, military overlord of the Nanking government, dispatched forces northward agaist the autonomy movement.

He cited an agreement concluded last June between Chinese war minister Ho Ying and Lieut. Gen. Yoshijiro Umezu, then commander of the Japanese garrison in North China, in which the Chinese government undertook to send no cetral goverment troops to the northern provinces.

Shanghai, Nov. 18—(AP)—The Chinese Nationalist government countered Japanese military activity along the Great Wall and reports of imminent establishment of an independent North China state today with a concentration of troops in Honan province.

The movement of the Nanking forces into Honan, reportedly for the purpose of blocking any autonomy movement in nearby Hopei province, brought forth a prompt warning from the Japanese military at Tientsin.

A spokesman for the military there said any maneuver threatening Hopei would be regarded as a grave violation of past agreements against movement of Central Government troops in the northern provinces.

A Chinese report that several Japanese troops ships had reached Taku, 27 miles southeast of Tientsin, to block the approaches to that city intensified alarm already rising from the massing of Japanese forces at Shanhaikuan, main gateway to northern China at the east end of the Great Wall.

The North China developments were reported to have been considered at a conference of Chinese military leaders, summoned hurriedly to Nanking by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek.

The outcome of this meeting was not disclosed immediately but the Central Government leaders were reported to have decided to appeal anew for full southern cooperation for the sake of national unity in the crisis.

MRS. VANDERBILT STILL TRYING TO GET GLORIA

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 18—(AP)—Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt today officially began before New York state's court of appeals a last ditch fight to gain custody of her 11-year-old daughter, Gloria Laura Morgan Vanderbilt.

The state's highest tribunal acknowledged receipt of Mrs. Vanderbilt's motion for permission to appeal directly from ruling giving custody of the child to her paternal aunt, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney.

This set the stage for final action in New York State in the case which has been in the courts more than a year. The court set no date for the argument on the motion to appeal.

The appellate division already has refused Mrs. Vanderbilt the right to appeal to the Court of Appeals.

Previously, that division had affirmed the ruling of Supreme Court Justice John F. Carew giving custody of little Gloria to Mrs. Whitney.

Justice Carew gave Mrs. Vanderbilt permission to have the child week-ends, Christmas and during July.

The motion to appeal is also made by George W. Wickersham [illegible] R. Gilchrist as general [illegible] property.

NEW ATTACK ON NEW DEAL LEGISLATION

Gov. Talmadge of Georgia Gets Right to Attack Cotton Act

Washington, Nov. 18—(AP)—A fresh attack on constitutionality of a New Deal act became certain today when the Supreme court gave permission to Governor Eugene Talmadge of Georgia, a Roosevelt critic, to file an original suit challenging the Bankhead Cotton Act.

In a brief session, at which only one case was formally decided, the court also granted a government motion that arguments be heard December 19 on validity of the Tennessee Valley Act. That made it probable that at least three New Deal cases would be finally decided in January.

The government was allowed additional time to answer a request by eight Louisiana rice millers to enjoin collection of AAA processing taxes on rice. The court granted until Thursday, with the requirement that no "jeopardy assessments" should be imposed against the millers for failure to pay the tax until the high court has passed on the injunction petitions.

New Dealers Make Protest

The Talmadge request won out despite protest of government attorneys. Stanley Reed, the Solicitor General, had contended there was no basis for the high court taking original jurisdiction before lower tribunals had passed on the controversy.

Talmadge contended the legislation was "unconstitutional" and was rendering the state's farm lands "substantially worthless." It operates two prison farms on which cotton is grown.

Georgia's petition asked that the act be declared unconstitutional and that Secretary Morgenthau and other Federal officials be enjoined from collecting the tax imposed on cotton produced in excess of a fixed quota.

The government must answer in the Talmadge case by January 20.

Before that time, another case involving the Bankhead act will have been argued and possibly decided. It was brought by Lee Moor, a Texas planter, against the Texas and New Orleans Railroad, to compel it to ship cotton which had no tags attached to show he had complied with the law.

Some attorneys say the Moor case can be decided without action on the validity of the act itself. Granting the Talmadge petition assured a direct ruling.

None of the action today involved final decisions on New Deal legislation. It was based on questions of proper procedure.

ROMANS ARE AROUSED BY SANCTIONS

Police Guard British and Other Embassies From Mobs

By The Associated Press

London—Economic sanctions against Italy, approved by 51 League of Nations members, took effect today. Italian goods will be barred from their markets and they will not export certain raw materials to Italy.

Rome—Troops guarded the British and other embassies as students paraded, denuoncing sanctions, some shouting "Down with England!" The Fascist grand council was to meet tonight to consider Italy's resistance to sanctions and perhaps discuss peace plans which came from diplomatic negotiations. Gen. De Bono reported progress of the Italian troops in the north, with the Ethiopians retreating beyond the Takkaze River, as the [illegible]opian southern army was said [illegible] withdrawing to Harar.

The[illegible]s Ababa—One authority [illegible]tion, [illegible]ile Selassie would go to the [illegible]rn front within ten days, a[illegible] which a major battle could be expected. The government announced Italian planes had bombed Enderta, near Makale, yesterday, killing and injuring civilians. It stated the residents of the area were revolting against Italian domination.

Paris—Merchandise headed for Italy piled up on the Italo-French frontier, as attempts were made to move it across the border before France's export ban takes effect tonight.

Naples—Marshal Pietro Badoglio announced he would sail tonight to replace Gen. de Bono as Italian commander-in-chief.

Asmara—The Italian Danakil column was reported to have entered Azib, east of Makale, after defeating Ethiopians in a fight in which Italian losses were 37 soldiers dead and four officers wounded.

Rome, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Helmeted troops brought home to Rome and other Italian cities today realization that they were under an economic siege as League of Nations sanctions, approved by 51 nations, took effect.

Whole quarters were blocked off by the army to protect the British embassy and those of other nations applying the punitive measures in an effort to halt Italy's warfare on Ethiopia.

Youths began parading be-flagged streets early, voicing indignation over this day of "ignominy and iniquity," on which the league states imposed a boycott on Italian goods and denied a selected list of key products to Italy.

Police and Fascist party authorities showed no intention of curbing the popular expression of resentment, but indicated plainly that they intended to protect foreign diplomatic missions.

Italy met the challenge of sanctions with a promise of reprisals, a series of self-imposed sacrifices and a younger general to prosecute the forbidden conquest, as well as the banner display, ordered throughout the kingdom by Premier Mussolini.

Il Duce summoned the Fascist grand council for a second session tonight to go into the details of Italy's resistance.

Informed sources said the supreme tribunal of state, created by Mussolini for approval or modification of measures he himself has dictated, also would review hopes for peace through European diplomatic negotiations.

At its first meeting Saturday night, the grand council denounced sanctions after Il Duce laid all his plans for the African war and the European blockade before the body, and renewed his pledge to marshal "all moral energy and material resources of the nation" in defense of the regime.

While the League has invoked its economic penalties in an effort to force a halt to the Italo-Ethiopian warfare, however, Italian, French and British statesmen have been consulting in an attempt to negotiate a peaceful settlement.

Authoritative informants said these conservations, conducted here by Mussolini, British Ambassador Sir Eric Drummond and French Ambassador Count Charles de Chambrun, would come now before the Fascist grand council.

The main Ethiopian armies have not yet been in contact with the Italians, a source close to Haile Selassie said, but "real fighting may be expected during the first ten days of December."

Barbara Ann Hess, daughter and children in Cook county were in need of food and the state was appealed to. A plan was worked out whereby it was hoped that all would be fed and none would starve. Within a few weeks a committee from the Lee county board of supervisors came to my office and sought assistance from the same source and requested that I accompany them to Chicago for this purpose, which I did and the relief was obtained. Other counties followed in the same path and funds were supplied to keep the men, women and children from starving to death.

Praise For Carriers

"In 1933 there was diverted one per cent from the gas tax for the purpose of replenishing the much needed school funds in Illinois. The rural mail carrier, I realize is one of the original contributors to the hard road system of Illinois which now leads the country. They have since turned their attention to roads which are beneficial to the farmer. Their program is by no means a selfish one, but is constructive and beneficial and I desire to take this opportunity to congratulate this progressive organization and its active supporting Auxiliary."

Theodore Dohmke, of Racine, Wis., president of the Wisconsin association, spoke of the program of road improvement which was undertaken in that state and introduced several delegates from Wisconsin who had accompanied him to the Dixon meeting.

Representative Henry Allen of Lyndon spoke of the rapid strides that have been made in Illinois highway construction and favored the secondary road system requesting the cooperation of the rural carriers of the state to effect this proposed program.

Lauds Leo Allen

J. Ed. Cooper of Ellwood, Ill., president of the National Rural Letter Carrier's association was the final speaker on the program. He urged the building of a higher standard of service as being the foremost purpose of the organization. He stated that those engaged in the rural postal service are agents for the distribution of information which is intended to upbuild. He paid his respects to Congressman Leo Allen for his attitude toward the rural carrier branch of service, adding that he has been sincere in his service to his district, a good representative of his people in this district, and if given an opportunity, would distinguish himself in the service both of his country and to his constituents. The speaker closed by stating that he was greatly interested in the liberalization of the retirement act and a second measure providing annuity for widows.

Mrs. Thornton's Will Admitted To Probate In Lee County Court

The will of the late Delia Eliza Thornton of Franklin Grove was admitted to probate before Judge Leech in the county court this morning. The will was drawn Sept. 24, 1927 and names a son, Manly P. Thornton of Worthington, Minn., as executor. The inventory values the estate at $15,000 in personal properties.

The instrument provides that a daughter, Alice Louise Thornton shall receive the sum of $1,000 and other personal effects; a daughter, Adeline DeWolf Thornton Pomeroy, $1,000; a son, Edward Shaw Thornton, the sum of $588. One-sixth of the rest and remainder of the estate, according to the provisions of the will is bequeathed to the First National bank of Amboy, to be held in trust, and to be re-invested in producing securities to be paid to a son, Harry Fitzhugh Thornton in monthly installments for the period of his life time, and in the event of his death, to provide a suitable burial, after which the amount is to be equally divided among the remaining five children.

The remainder of her estate is divided equally among the following heirs: Adeline DeWolf Thornton Pomeroy, Manley Philip Thornton, Alice Louise Thornton, Edward Shaw Thornton, and Florence Alberta Clark Thornton. A codicil to the will bearing date of Dec. 32, 1932, provides that sum of money loaned the heirs be deducted in the settlement of the estate.

HOOVER SPEECH CRITICIZED BY NEW DEAL MEN

Mahoney Says G. O. P. Party Leader To Run Again

Washington, Nov. 18—(AP)—Democratic spokesmen joined today in in criticizing Herbert Hoover's New York speech demanding a new federal fiscal policy, but Chairman Henry P. Fletcher of the Republican National Committee praised it.

"I agree perfectly with everything he said," Fletcher told reporters, "It was a splendid speech."

Speaking in New York Saturday night, Hoover advanced an 11-point program which included a call for a balanced budget, reestablishment of the gold standard and the stopping of silver purchases.

Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) said the speech showed that Hoover "unquestionably" was seeking the Republican nomination for president again.

"Mr. Hoover," Senator Black (D-Ala.), said, "proposes now, since we are recovering from the malady (depression) to turn the patient over to the very crowd that brought about its near fatal illness. The people are not going to stand for that."

Fletcher linked his endorsement of the former president's financial program with a fresh assault on the recovery claims of New Deal chieftains.

Asserting there had been three distinct economic periods since President Roosevelt took office, the committee chairman said the first was "one of speedy business and industrial recovery" extending from April, 1933, to August, 1933, and that New Deal policies had "absolutely nothing" to do with it.

The second lasted from September, 1933, to June, 1935, Fletcher said, and "was a period of relapse in many fields of private enterprise and stagnation in others. x x

"During that period the government entered into every conceivable field of private enterprise. It abandoned all pretense of attempting to reduce public expenditures or even keep them within reasonable bounds."

The supreme court's ruling that the NRA was unconstitutional marked the start of the third and present economic period, Fletcher said, adding it had been attended by business improvement.

DIVERSION OF GAS TAX OPPOSED BY RURAL CARRIERS

Meeting Here Also Pleads For Secondary Road System in State

Opposition to the diversion of Illinois gasoline tax for purposes other than was originally intended and a plea for a system of secondary roads in the state to serve as farm to market highways, were the principals presented and discussed at a meeting of the Rural Letter Carrier's association of the Thirteenth Congressiional district, held at the Elks club in this city Saturday evening. The program followed the serving of the annual banquet to about 200 rural letter carriers, members of the association, and their wives who form the Auxiliary to the organization.

Warner Gives Welcome

Freeman Robinson of this city and John W. Brader of Oregon, the latter serving as secretary of the district organization, arranged the fine banquet and program which followed. Van Andreas of Sterling, president of the organization, presided as toastmaster throughout the evening and the first speaker to be presented was Attorney H. C. Warner of this city who delivered the address of welcome in his typically clever manner. Secretary Brader responded and in the course of his remarks voiced the opposition of the organization to the diversion of the state gas tax for purpose other than those for which it was originally intended.

Asks Secondary Roads

James Cummins of Springfield, central committeeman for the association gave the key note address of the evening. He started with a plea for a secondary road system in Illinois which would not only serve for the speedy transportation of mail but would serve the farmers and other traffic on a system of farm to market highways. Such a program, he stated, should occupy the major position in the Federal PWA program. He strongly advocated a national road improvement program and urged the rural carriers to cooperate with the agricultural organizations to bring about such a program. He suggested surveys being made in the various counties to determine the mileage of improved roads and showing the unimproved roads and outlining a state wide program to be submitted for consideration which would not only benefit the service to patrons on rural mail routes but would benefit the patrons as well.

Devine and Allen Talk

Mrs. Maude Walker of Apple River, president of the district Auxiliary organization, spoke briefly and presented visiting committeewomen, Mrs. Eisen and Mrs. Dohmke of Wisconsin and Mrs. James Cummins of Springfield. Congressman Leo Allen was presented and talked very briefly. He was followed by Hon. John P. Devine of this city, who told the delegates that the name, Speaker of the House, should in no wise be considered as cast, but that the office of speaker should have been called, listener.

"I have no doubt but that bad roads are one of the worst difficulties which can confront a rural mail carrier," the speaker said in opening as he answered the complaints of preceding speakers, and then referred to the diversion of the state gas tax.

"The gas tax at one time a short time ago was the only money in the state treasury. Suddenly we awoke to the fact that men, women and children were unreported; pleasure boats were wrecked by the hundred. The Florida later reached safe anchorage in Hampton Roads.

A seaman was swept to his death, from a freighter and at least eight highway fatalities were charged against slippery roads and windshields covered by snow or pelting rain. Two Massachusetts duck hunters were missing.

Entire towns were flooded [illegible] were isolated on the barrier beaches which form much of New Jersey's and Long Island's coastlines. Various communities reported buildings toppled, highways undermined and boardwalks cut.

Official estimates of the damage were impossible before a check on whatever havoc was wrought by another high tide during the night. Newspaper estimates, however, ranged from $1,000,000 to $15,000,000. North Jersey shore officials appealed to the federal government for repair funds.

The northeast wind swung to the northwest today, beating back the fury of the sea. But as a reminder the gale left the North Atlantic states their first real taste of winter. Inland areas reported freezing weather and as much as 8½ inches of snow.

Former President Hoover, motoring from New York City to Binghamton, N. Y., sought shelter at Monticello. He said he would complete the trip by train today.

The record line motorship Florida, listing and sluggish, made a run for the harbor at Hampton Roads with the coast guard cutter Sabago as an escort and two other cutters nearby.

The S. S. Hartwelson, Boston collier, lost a man overboard, but apparently was riding out the storm. The S. S. Orizaba stood [illegible]

The three-masted schooner [illegible]lian E. Kerr apparently was safely anchored off Cape Henry, despite a shifting cargo. But another schooner was hunted off Narranganset Bay after reports that it was in distress. The unreported tug was the P. F. Marvin, bound for Philadelphia with one barge.

A SCIENTIFIC WONDER

"The De Forest Ultra Frequency Dynatherm is a marvel for deep penertation of bodily tissues, and is specially adapted to reach and eradicate deep seated infection. So powerful is this new invented apparatus that it will transmit with ease an ultra frequency current consisting of 2000 milliamperes through a stack of books 10 inches thick.

At a contest staged by Friendly Fever Machine Manufacturers and held in Chicago early last spring, the De Forest Ultra Frequency Dynatherm, being compared and tested by the foremost Physiotherapists of the U. S. proved itself to be the most efficient and best adaptable of all the contesting Friendly Fever Machines present at the contest.

Desiring the most scientific and best adapatable Hyperpyrexia apparatus for general office use, I purchased this De Forest and installed it in my office May 23, 1935. After nearly six months of continued trials and careful applications, the De Forest Ultra Frequency Dynatherm has proven itself a blessing to the afflicted and a great delight to myself.

A FAULTY WIFE.

By Joseph Fort Newton.

"MY WIFE has two faults," writes a jolly reader, which I hope you will help me cure. They are not bad faults—not half as bad as some of mine—and they would get on my nerves if they were not so funny.

"If she dies before I do—which heaven forbid—she will be entitled to the epitaph which a friend of John Burroughs proposed for his wife if he outlived her: 'Died of Things and Buried Beneath Them!'

"Only in the case of my wife it is worse—she is a victim of the tyranny of tidiness. As a housekeeper she is not only good, but entirely too good—her home is almost too spick and span to live in.

"In other words, she is terribly particular, and that may be the basis of the other fault, which is even funnier. She has a genius for drawing huge, sweeping generalities from tiny particular facts.

"If she bought a barrel of apples and found one with a speck on it, she would tell everybody about it for a month. If she found two specked apples, she would talk about 'that barrel of rotten apples!'"

Exactly, but have you never caught yourself doing the same thing—drawing big general conclusions from small particular instances? We all do it, and particularly when humanity is the subject of talk.

We meet a certain trait of character or attitude of mind. Presently we meet it again, then we put the two together, and conclude that all the folk in that town, or family, or class are of that sort.

Thus leaping from a few instances to final estimates, we speak of "the flapper mind," or "the German fear-complex," or "the vivid younger generation," and all the rest of the loose and foolish rigamarole.

It is especially so when we have to do with folk of another race or country. If one Japanese does something we do not like, we jump to the conclusion that all his race do it as a matter of habit.

Cynics, pessimists, and maybe optimists, are usually generalizers of the same kind. For the rest, my reader had better look to his own faults, and be sure and not track mud or dust on the parlor floor!

Jaschka Rushkin In Concert with Mildred Wallace & Ensemble Sunday in Sterling

Jascha Ruskin conductor-violinist, will present a concert at the Sterling Coliseum on next Sunday afternoon at 3:30, with Mildred Wallace, soprano, and an ensemble from the Chicago Symphony, with Maurice Rosenfeld, as commentator. This concert will be of great interest to the northern Illinois music conscious, as Mildred Wallace is a Sterling girl. She won the Atwater Kent audition contest of 1929 and also won a Prochowski scholarship in competition with singers from twenty-seven states. She has studied with Elisabeth Rethberg, and has been leading lady with Jose Mojica of the Chicago Civic Opera company.

Mr. Rushkin, for six years a member of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, is known both as a violin virtuoso and as conductor. He was a member of the Belgian Zoellner quartet and was the youngest first violinist in the St. Louis Symphony orchestra under Zach, attaining that position at 17 years of age.

He has conducted his own symphony orchestra and organized string ensembles for the presentation of chamber music, at the same time playing under Papi in the Ravinia Opera company orchestra.

Next Sunday's program will include opera symphony, and lighter selections. The audience will be interested in the rare old instruments used by the string section of the ensemble. The instruments, valued at $200,000, are part of the Wurlitzer collection.

Sometime ago in the summer a prominent citizen of Sterling engaged Miss Wallace and Mr. Rushkin and his ensemble for an evening musicale. The audience within the grounds of this palatial home numbered better than a hundred guests. Later it was discovered that the invisible audience parked in cars surrounding this residence were several times the number of the original audience.

Since then these artists have been approached by many friends and the Mendelssohn Club for a concert appearance in Sterling. They have responded with sincere interest and full cooperation.

Beauty Hints Emphasize Details

By ALICIA HART

NEA Service Staff Writer

The woman who wants to be attractive at all times remembers to remove old makeup before she puts on another layer. She keeps a small bottle of liquid cleanser in the drawer of her desk and carries another in her handbag.

When her nose gets shiny and lipstick looks faded, she uses the liquid to remove stale cosmetics. Then she starts at the beginning and, when finished, her face is dewy and fresh. She remembers, also, that simple little beauty routines, practiced daily, are more beneficial in the long run than pretentious ones, done only now and then.

For instance, five minutes of nightly brushing will be infinitely more valuable to the health of your hair than one long brushing and a twenty minute scalp massage only once a month.

A chin that is slapped several times each night and rinsed with ice water will stay firm and young longer than one which never is touched except on occasional visits to the beauty shop.

Cuticle which is oiled or creamed three nights a week will be softer and have fewer rough edges than cuticle that never is touched by oil except at the professional manicure table.

An all purpose cream saves time as well as strain on the budget. Get one that cleans and softens your complexion and use it night and morning. If your pores are a trifle large, perhaps an all-purpose cream that acts as a pore tightener will be just the thing.

SUNLIGHT
By Helen Welshimer
THE sun makes halos here and there
For unprotected heads to wear.
It throws its ribbons on the street
Like shining rugs for people's feet.
IT ties its gold in loops and bows
On people's shabby-looking clothes
And watching faces you can tell
That hearts today are feeling well!

A COMRADE LOOKS BACK

The Communist party in Russia rose in its wrath the other day and heaved out of its ranks Comrade Mikhail Saveliev, who used to be a private chauffeur for the Grand Duke Mikhail Alexandrovitch. Comrade Saveliev's offense seems to have consisted of telling his friends that the best years of his life were those he spent in chauffeuring for the grand duke.

It is hard not to suspect that a rich and ironic little human interest story lies back of all this. Comrade Saveliev was a benighted wage slave before the revolution, and there was a vas gulf fixed between him and his titled employer.

Came the revolution and he was freed of all that. No more kowtowing or saluting or living the life of an inferior; grand dukes were out, and Comrade Saveliev was as good as any man.

But somehow Comrade Saveliev seems to have had more fun under the old system. He actually enjoyed his pitiable lot.

The pickings which a grand duke's chauffeur could lay hands on, one gathers, were not inconsiderable. And it is probable that you would have a richly human little comedy if you could get at the whole story about this former chauffeur.

THE PUBLIC SHOULD KNOW

The decision of the Texas court of criminal appeals that newspapers have a right to publish court trial proceedings is a welcome reaffirmation of the right to a free press.

A prison farm convict was tried for murder in a Texas court some time ago, and the judge ordered newspapers not to print the testimony that was given, fearing that it might interfere with getting juries for the trials of two of the prisoner's associates.

The newspapers printed the testimony anyway, and the judge had six reporters and editors cited for contempt. The decision of the higher court clears them.

It is possible to admit that the judge's fears of the effects of publicity on the later trials may have been justified, and at the same time to insist that this is overshadowed by a larger principle.

Once you make it possible for a judge to conduct a trial as a star-chamber affair, you open the way to all kinds of abuses.

The newspaper reporter in the courtroom is, ultimately, the public's chief protection.

COSTLY FROM THE START

Maybe it isn't a precedent of any kind, but anyhow the New York courts have just held that the cost of a wedding is a responsibility of the groom's parents as well as of the bride's. They have ordered the $848 expenses of the marriage of one Joseph Graziano, Jr., to Mary Yacenda split between the Graziano and Yacenda in-laws.

This is interesting as a revelation of the fact that ordinary people who aren't trying to crash the society columns can still find it advisable to lay out as much as $848 on a wedding blow-out. Just who so much money need be spent to get two people safely launched on the matrimonial sea is a bit hard to understand—except that it is the custom.

What we're trying to say is that the custom is a poor one. The over-elaborate wedding is silly when staged by wealthy society folk; when attempted by people in moderate circumstances, it is actually wrong. Why not make marriages cheaper—and, incidentally, try to make them a little more lasting?

BRIDGING A WIDE GAP

It may have escaped your attention, but a small part of the hard-earned money you have given the federal tax collector is going to be used to build bridges in Central America.

Expenditure of $340,000 of PWA for bridges in Panama, Honduras and Guatemala has been approved by President Roosevelt, under authority of an act of Congress passed a year ago last June. And while it may seem odd for Uncle Sam to be building bridges for the Central Americans, this money will really be very well spent.

The point is that these bridges will be links in the great Pan-American highway, which presently will link the Americas for motor transport. It is perfectly obvious that this will give American exporters a tremendous advantage in the Latin-American market; equally so, that it will be a great break for the American motorist who wants to go touring in new lands. The nation will get a fine return on that $340,000.

POLITICS GONE TOO FAR

The high price the public pays for permitting selfish machine politics to handle its state governments is apt to be a good deal higher, now that the states are adopting new functions which affect the lives of citizens more closely.

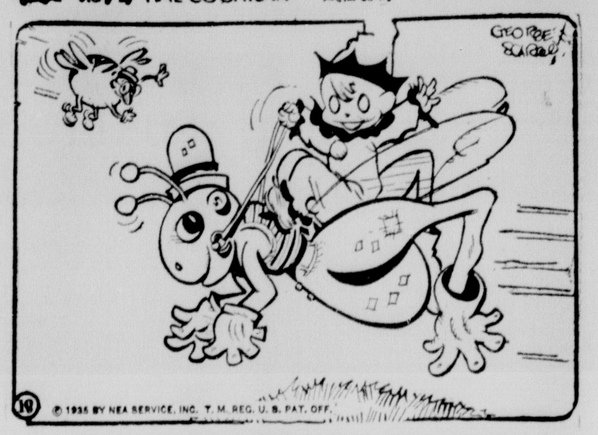
An example is the complaint recently registered by the American Association for Social Security, to the effect that Ohio's old-age pension system has been "perverted into a political instrumentality" by the state administration, with an increase of incompetency and waste in direction of its affairs.

We can endure political misgovernment in affairs that do not touch us closely. An old-age pension is different. It needs the most honest and efficient management that can possibly be applied.

Politicians who tamper with such things are exacting far too high a price for their services.

THE TINYTWITTIES

Story by HAL COCHRAN Pictures by GEORGE SCARBO



READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

Wee Duncy was the last to try to scrub his teeth. He shouted, "I am very much surprised that, after all, its lots of fun.

"I know my teeth are pearly white, so I must be a pretty sight. At first, you know, I kicked but now I'm glad that it's been done."

"And so am I," said Coppy. "Say, the next thing we should do today is have a bit of breakfast, but where is it coming from?"

The toothbrush thought a minute and then said, "Why, I can lend a hand. I know a little woods elf. I am sure he'll give you some.

* * *

"His home is up in yonder tree. He's always glad to do for me almost anything I ask him. Watch him answer to my call."

And then the brush yelled, "Hey, friend elf, come from your home and show yourself." The little elf appeared and answered, "Howdy, one and all."

Then, just as he jumped from the tree, wee Dotty shouted, "Mercy me! The toothbrush and the tube of paste disappeared from sight."

"Don't worry," said the elf, "I heard what Coppy just said. Every word. You will not need your old friends any more, so all's all right.

* * *

"I'll serve you breakfast. Plenty too. I have enough for all of you." The Tinies soon were eating. "This is dandy," Dotty cried.

When they were through, the elf said, "Say, I have a plan for you today. I'll call some big grasshoppers and they'll take you for a ride."

As soon as he began to shout, the hoppers came ahopping out. "Just six of them," said Scouty. "Each of us can ride on one."

They very quickly hopped aboard. "Good luck to you," the kind elf roared. The hoppers started hopping, and wee Duncy yelled, "What fun!"

These free packages not only bring you Vicks Va-tro-nol, unique aid in preventing colds, and Vicks VapoRub, modern external method of treating colds—but they also bring all the information you need to follow Vicks Plan for Better Control of Colds.

5,118 Children in School Clinics

The Plan was tested in three series of clinics conducted over a period of three years, among 14,702 people. These tests indicate gratifying results in fewer, shorter and milder colds for those following Vicks Plan.

Especially interesting to mothers are the results from the clinics among 5,118 school children. Children following Vicks Plan lost 40.20% fewer days from school on account of colds.

Naturally, results varied with different groups. Some groups made even higher records—savings up to 75.30%. The saving of 40.20% was the average for all groups following Vicks Plan.

Prove It In Your Family

In your own family group, too, individual results from Vicks Plan may vary. But the high average of its success in these clinics suggests its very real possibilities for your household possibilities that only your thorough trial of the Plan can disclose.

That's why this trial package with details of the Plan, and samples of Vick Aids to Better Control of Colds, is being sent to your home. Test the samples—follow the Plan—then watch results!

If you fail to get your free package within the next few days, write to Vicks, 404 Milton St., Greensboro, N. C., and one will be sent to you, postpaid, by return mail.

Knox Says President Backs Radicals, Not Regular Democrats

Washington, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Col. Frank Knox, Chicago publisher and Republican presidential possibility, said today that President Roosevelt's endorsement of Senator Norris, (R-Neb.) was consistent with the course under which he had "abandoned his own party program and taken up the radicals' program."

Knox was in the capital for the week end, visiting his wife, who has established a winter residence here. He refused to discuss politics generally ,or his own plans for 1936.

"It is not at all surprising that the president should endorse Senator Norris, just as he has Senator LaFollette in Wisconsin," Knox said, "because on the face of things it is obvious he thinks much as they do.

"But it leaves the Democrats in Wisconsin and Nebraska as orphans in the storm. They are feeling it very keenly. I know about Wisconsin because it is a neighboring state to mine . I suspect the Democrats feel much the same way.

"The president's program is no longer Democratis, but radical. The president has abandoned his own party program and taken up the radicals' program. This is consistent with his own program, but not the program on which he was elected."

Some "Don'ts" for Pile Sufferers

If you are a sufferer from Piles or some other rectal disorder, read carefully the following list of "don'ts" — prepared by Dr. T. G. McCleary, world known rectal specialist. Don't neglect a well defined rectal ailment and expect it to get well. Don't use an ointment for temporary relief, believing it will produce a permanent cure. Don't wait until your whole system is undermined before you consult a competent rectal specialist. Don't take the grave chance of cancer or some other incurable condition developing before you decide to do what you should do now. Dr. McCleary has prepared a book that describes all rectal conditions and the mild McCleary treatment. It will be sent free to any rectal sufferer.

LIBERALIZE G. O. P. BELIEVED TO BE BORAH'S PROGRAM

Think He is More Interested in That Than in Running

Washington, Nov. 16.—(AP) — Senator Borah's "definite objective" for 1936 was put down by political observers today as an effort to "liberalize" the Republican party and prevent the so-called "old guard" from controlling the national convention.

The Idaho Republican told reporters yesterday that whether he enters the primaries himself as a presidential candidate "depends on developments."

Borah's comments were one of three developments illustrating increasing interest in the 1936 campaign wars. The others were:

1. An extraordinary pronouncement by President Roosevelt that Senator Norris, Republican of Nebraska, was necessary "in the senate not only to Nebraska but to the United States as long as he lives."

2. A warning by Robert H. Lucas, who was executive director of the Republican National Committee during part of the Hoover administration, that "unless a forthright and courageous national Republican leadership arouses the old-time fire" the party may "suffer general defeat."

Borah, in a press conference, said he had given some hint of his objective in a recent interview at Boise, in which it was emphasized he was not so much interested in the nomination himself as in seeing a liberal candidate chosen and a progressive platform adopted.

Wonder About Nebraska

President Roosevelt's unqualified endorsement of Norris raised questions as to what would happen in Nebraska next year.

For months, prospective candidates have hestitated, waiting to find out what Norris would do. They took with uncertainty reports he would retire. Then came Norris' denial he had made up his mind.

Some Democratic leaders have been in a quandry for months although Senator E. R. Burke of Omaha, one of the titular leaders of the party, announced he thought Norris should be re-elected without opposition. Some Democrats felt their party ticket would be stronger in Nebraska with Norris a candidate than without him. Some, however, want to go down the line for a straight party ticket with a regular Democrat for senator.

Lucas, in declaring the Republican party must have the "old time" fire, said the recent Kentucky gubernatorial fight, which the Democrat A. B. Chandler won, was "alarming proof of the low ebb to which the fighting spirit of the Republican organization has fallen."

IDEAL HOUSE FEATURES CO-ORDINATED PLAN

Moderate-Priced Home Designed for Interior Livability

By MARY MARGARET McBRIDE
NEA Service Staff Writer

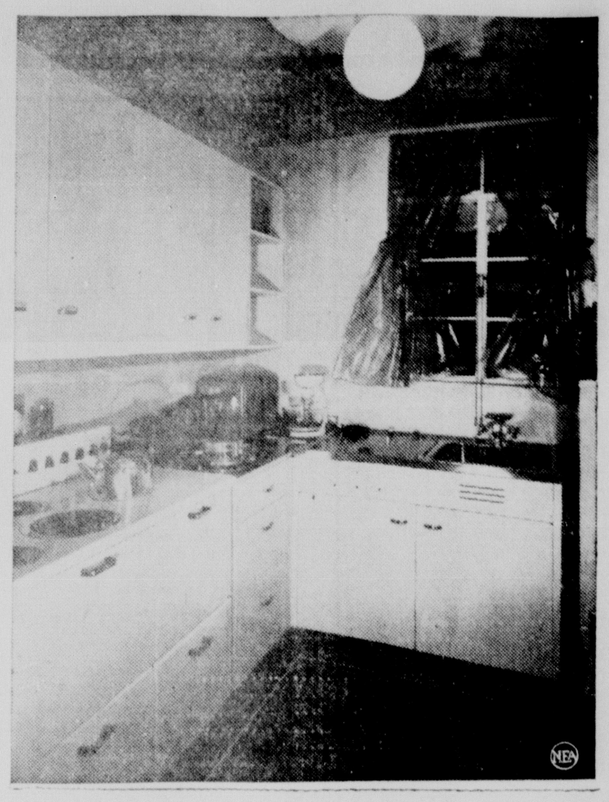
New York—The moderate-priced house of the not-too-distant future, according to the New American Home Committee, will have logical room sequences and arrangement, windows placed for interior effectiveness rather than exterior design, with fifteen per cent more wall space as a result, year-round air conditioning, scientific lighting and a co-ordinated unit plan of furnishing that will insure comfort, economy and good taste.

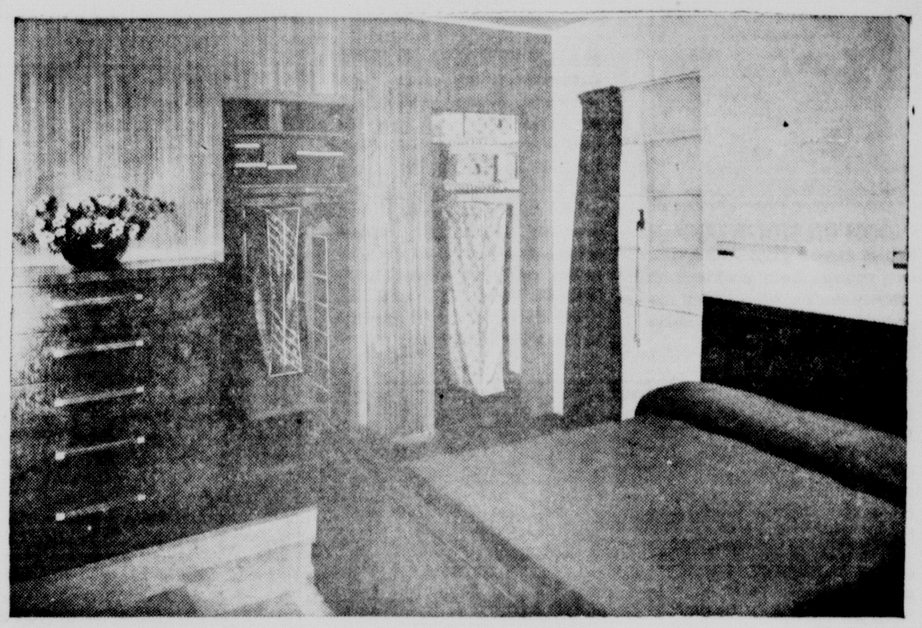
Sounds like the millenium, but there is already such an architectural and decorative phenomenon in Rockefeller Center, and other similar houses soon will be opened in the country.

Outdoor Living Room, Too

The indoor living room (the front yard is arranged as an outdoor one) is not really large, but by careful planning from the inside out, it is made to appear much larger. Air conditioning makes it possible to put all the windows on one side in a group. This leaves more free wall space. Doors are concentrated at one end of the room to the same end. The living room mantel is about half as high as the ordinary mantel and the picture hung over it is thus brought more intimately to the gaze of the beholder.

A glass brick half-partition is used instead of the usual wall to separate the dining alcove from the living room. The glass hides the kitchen entrance fro mthe eyes of those in the living room, and yet, being glass, does not shut off light.





In the Home of the Future, the kitchen (left), shining with "tailored" white enamel has appointments in red. Everything is electric from egg beater to stove, with compact cupboards and air conditioning to keep it odor-free and cool. The living room (below) is an illustration of how keeping windows in one wall makes an attractive arrangement of furnishings possible. The color scheme is beige, brown and yellow, with cork floors and flexwood giving rich-looking but economically-built walls. At left below is a bedroom with its closets especially designed for a man and woman. The masculine closet is walnut finished with plenty of boxes, tie racks and hangers; his lady's closet is papered in glazed chintz; the bedroom color scheme ranges from beige to mulberry.

(From New American Homes Campaign, New York)

Only two of the four walls match. These two are painted in putty color. Another wall is tinted yellow. The fourth is done with the glass bricks. The floor is cork, easy on the feet and easy to keep clean.

Closets Meet Special Needs

The master stroke in the bedroom is one closet for the mistress and another for the master. The master's is done with flexwood walls and a fine arrangement of tie rack shoe case, trousers bar and sturdy hangers finished to match the walls.

The mistress' is a feminine affair with fittings of every conceivable sort—they can all be bought at budget prices, incidentally— in glazed chintz. Two bedroom walls are painted, one is papered, and the fourth is of flexwood.

Two Types of Nursery Wards

Living room, bedroom and dining alcove have sunken lighting fixtures in the ceiling placed above the piece of furniture which most needs direct and reflected light. The living room floor lamp can be adjusted for three intensities. A chromium tube on a metal base, used as a desk light and very similar to the lights over the beds in the bedroom, directs the light to one spot when adjusted.

Even the nursery has the variegated wall treatment. Three sides are done with a blue polka dot paper. The fourth is papered in plain blue. The chest of drawers has vari-colored knobs which are matched by the insides of the drawers. The idea is that the child will learn colors and neatness at one fell swoop. The practical crib can be modified and used for a bed when the boy (or girl) grows older. There is even a child-height window in the toy closet.

The kitchen has all-electric equipment, red accessories, shell-pink wall, a floor of black rubber and a lighting system backed with a white metal reflector and hung from the ceiling to avoid glare and shadows. The bathroom is made up of prefabricated units. In one panel are the sink, mirror, medicine ches and clothes hanger under the sink. In another are the tub and shower.

TEN YEAR PLAN ABOLISH SLUMS IS CONSIDERED

One Billion Dollars Necessary to Set It Going

Washington, Nov. 16.—(AP) — A ten-year slum clearance and low-rent public housing program with an appropriation close to $1,000,000,000 to start it off is under discussion in the Roosevelt administration.

Senator Wagner (D-NY), who was prominently identified with the social security, labor disputes and railway pensions measures, said he had talked over the idea with President Roosevelt in a general way and will go into it in more detail when the president returns from his Thanksgiving trip to Warm Springs, Ga.

"This would not be an emergency proposition, but a definite ten year plan," Wagner said in an interview.

He asserted such a program had been "a boon" to the building industry and persons with low incomes in England and European countries and undoubtedly would have tremendous economic and social advantages if undertaken in the United States.

"It is in slums where disease and crime is spread," he said.

Wagner thought it would be a good idea to consolidate the existing "scattered" housing agencies in the interior department and resettlement administration.

Enough Work Relief?

He said he believed there would be no necessity for additional work relief appropriations at the next session of congress and that money for social betterment could now be turned to such things as housing for the poor and middle classes.

He has a bill pending which he hopes will form the basis for discussion. It would create a permanent division of housing in Secretary Ickes' department.

The new agency could make grants and loans to local public-housing bodies for low-rent and slum-eradicating projects. The government would put up 30 per cent of the cost of labor and materials, the local institutions the remainder.

Where no responsible housing body existed, the agency could build and operate housing.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Mortals and Immortals" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, November 17.

The Golden Text was, "We that are in this tabernacle do groan, being burdened: not for that we would be unclothed, but clothed upon, that mortality might be swallowed up of life" (II Cor. 5:4).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Ye are my witnesses, saith the Lord, and my servant whom I have chosen: that ye may know and believe me, and understand that I am he: before me there was no God formed, neither shall there be after me.

This people have I formed for myself; they shall shew forth my praise" (Isaiah 43:10, 21).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Immortal man was and is God's image or idea, even the infinite expression of infinite Mind, and immortal man is coexistent and coeternal with that Mind . . Immortal man is not and never was material, but always spiritual and eternal" (p. 336).

Friends Recall Rogers' Interest In Polo When He Explained First Game

Cheered Him To Be At Bedside of Sick Friend

Will Rogers was a many sided friend—a friend in need and a friend in deed—says Fred Stone, theatrical star and one of Rogers' intimates.

He relates several incidents portraying sidelights of the Knickerbocker Theatre, New York City. 'Are you Fred Stone I'm Will Rogers.' That was all. A handshake—a friendship formed that was to last many years.

"Watching him advance was a thrill, too, and anyone can understand who knew Bill.

"The most vivid memory is of the time he went with me to the bedside of my Dad and saw my father's joy because he was there. How it cheered him thru the few remaining hours of his life!

"The gayest memory is of our first polo game. A friend of ours loaned us ponies and instructed us in the game. Bill came thundering after the ball riding me off. His polo mallet hooked in mine and he dragged me backward and off my horse as I had foolishly put 2 COL HEAD..

the straps of my mallet about my wrist, and as I landed on the ground Will drawled, 'Say, Fred, in this game you're supposed to keep right on ridin'.'

"The most thrilling memory is of my first plane trip. It was a flight across the continent to see Bill.

"The most tender memory is when I looked through heavy bandages as I lay in the hospital at New Londoo, Conn., after my plane crash. Bill was grinning but the tears were running down his cheeks. Dear old Bill! He had wired me he would come and take my place in Mr. Dillingham's production of 'Three Cheers,' which was ready to go into rehearsal. I had them phone Mr. Dillingham in New York, who communicated with Bill and in a few days Bill flew East. He stood at my bedside tryirg to joke and telling me I never looked funnier. I tried to joke back through teeth wired together because of a cracked jaw. Will always made you want to joke and smile. How game he was! I know what a supreme effort it cost him to try to cheer me up while holding back his tears for he had the tenderest heart in the world.

"When he left to go to New York to start his rehearsal he said, 'I'll take care of Dorothy, Fred. I ain't aimin' to take your place. I'll do the best I can but I can't dance. All I can do is gab.'

"I knew he would make a big hit and he did. It was the biggest personal success made in the theatre in many years, but more important than even that was the tender expression of his friendship as he stood at my bedside. That lives forever in my memory.

"God bless Will Rogers."

Millions now have an opportunity to contribute to the memory of Will Rogers. Famous friends have organized The Will Rogers Memorial Commission. It is hoped every one who smiled with Rogers will come forward with a subscription. Take it or send it to your bank—or any bank—or use the accompanying coupon to send your subscription to this office. Every cent subscribed will be used for memorials to be selected by Henry Ford, Herbert Hoover, Alfred E. Smith, Will H. Hays, Jesse H. Jones, Owen D. Young, Vice President John N. Garner and other men and women of national prestige and respect. The memorials will depend on the number of friends who contribute—but they will be used for charitable, educational and humanitarian purposes. There will be no cold shaft of marble to honor the memory of this warm, friendly man. They will be living, continuing memorials.

BERWANGER TO END FOOTBALL PLAYING DAYS

Appears Last Time Against Illini Next Saturday

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 18—This setting is perfect for a thrilling football game when Illinois and Chicago, continuing a rivalry that started 48 years ago, close their seasons in the Illinois stadium.

It will be the last appearance on the college gridiron of Capt. Jay Berwanger, Chicago's great back, who is a real All-American player in the opinion of Coach Bob Zuppke of Illinois. Berwanger and his teammates, who have played close and exciting games with the Illini for two years, losing by the turn of a hair both in 1933 and 1934, will be keyed to the limit.

They believe that if the football fates had been just a little kinder, victory would have perched on the Maroon banners the last two years. You cannot blame them for this feeling.

Illini Won

Two years ago Illinois won from Chicago in the stadium by a score of 7 to 0, only after a close and spectacular struggle, in which the Maroons time and time again seemed destined to triumph. The mighty Berwanger, then a sophomore, carried the ball 36 times for a total net gain of 95 yards, three more yards than the entire Illinois backfield gained.

Once the heroic Berwanger fumbled on the Illinois three yard line. Later he carried the ball 32 yards to the Illinois seven yard line from where the Maroons on their fourth try were stopped on the one foot line.

Illinois' winning touchdown was made by Crain Portman after he had received a pass from Jack Beynon.

Last year Maroons and Illini fought another exciting battle on Stagg field where the hesitating scales of victory were turned to Illinois when Chuck Galbreath nabbed a forward pass which had bounced off a Maroon defender and ran to the Chicago goal. Illinois won, 6 to 0, before the largest crowd Stagg field had seen in a decade.

Chicago Felt Loss Keenly

Berwanger and his followers believe that they might well have won either or both of these games. They need no incentive to strive for a victory over their old rivals.

Chicago's high moment this season came against Ohio State when the Maroons played Ohio State's powerful team off its feet in the first half and led by a score of 13 to 0 before the Buckeyes finally managed to score in the third quarter. Ohio State's superior manpower eventually wore down the battling Maroons and gained victory by a score of 20 to 13, but it was generally agreed that while the game was Ohio's, the glory was Chicago's.

Freshman Coach Mills says that he never saw a greater run than the 85-yard dash of Berwanger through the Ohio State team for a touchdown. Berwanger reversed his field three times as he eluded the Buckeye tacklers.

If the Maroons have much incentive to strive for victory, so have the Illini. It will be the valedictory game for such Illinois warriors as Capt. Chuck Galbreath, Eddie Gryboski, Arvo Antilla, Les Lindberg, George Frederick, Bob Wright, Cliff Gano, Ken Bradley, Earl Jansen, Eli Van Orman, and Matt Tischler. Due honor to the departing players will be done by the Illini supporters.

COCHRAN MOVES NEAR BILLIARD TOURNEY CROWN

Chicago, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Welker Cochran, smiling young San Francisco cuist, reigning 18.2 balk line billiard champion, today had the world's three cushion championship within his grasp.

Winner of seven straight games, Cochran plays Arthur Thurnblad of Chicago tonight, and, if victorious, meets Willie Hoppe, master of the 18.1 game, for the championship tomorrow.

Hoppe firmly entrenched himself in second place last night, with seven victories and one defeat. He outplayed Johnny Layton of Sedalia, Mo., defending champion, 50 to 41 in 50 innings.

Layton is tied with Allen Hall of St. Louis, Jay N. Bozeman of California and Kinrey Matsuyama of Tokyo, Japan, for fourth place, each with four victories and five defeats.

The Blackfoot Indians of a few generations ago ran foot races several hundred miles in length, without stopping. A favorite run was from what is now Gleichen, Alberta, to Medicine Hat and back, a distance of about 240 miles.

Here and There In Sports World

New York, Nov. 18—(AP)—Some cheering is in order in this corner . . . You have to give Wallace Wade credit for one of the nicest bits of coaching of the season . . . Never was a team better prepared for a certain game than Duke was for North Carolina . . . They told us down there Wade actually got out and played in the line with the boys in practicing during the last two weeks . . . Anyway, it was a perfect job and the result was the biggest upset the South has known since Mississippi State toppled Alabama.

Ace Parker, Duke's quarter, can step with any of them . . . The All-American selectors should put a cross opposite his name as a reminder . . . And the line made you think of those Alabama forward walls that made the coast sit up and take notice when Wade was a regular visitor to the Rose Bowl.

Wade says his team had one great game in its system and got rid of it Saturday . . . Carl Snavely says his boys had a bad game coming and chose to play it Saturday.

Well, what about the Rose Bowl? . . . Looks like they may have to ask a team from west of the Mississippi if they insist on an unbeaten outfit . . . It might be a good idea for Southern Methodist and Texas Christian to start their press agents west at once . . . North Carolina, Marquette and Syracuse are out . . . Dartmouth will have earned a bid if it beats Princeton, but that's something else entirely . . . If California is the western team it may go right ahead and invite Notre Dame despite that defeat and tie . . . After all, Notre Dame is the team that makes those turnstiles click.

S. M. U. PILES UP HIGHEST TOTAL GRIDIRON RACE

Harvard Passing Attack Too Much for Redmen as Legionnaires Win 19-6

First Defeat For Independents This Fall

Another victory was added to the Harvard American Legionnaires impressive record Sunday afternoon on the Dixon high school field when the invading football eleven handed the Dixon Redmen their first reverse 19 to 6. The Legionnaires have suffered only eight losses in the past 53 games they have played covering a period of several years.

The Legion eleven held the locals entirely on the defensive until the closing moments of the game when Stauffer, Redman right end snared two passes the latter aerial counting Dixon's only touchdown from the three yard line just as the gun banged ending the game.

Harvard made twelve first downs to only three for the Redmen and completed five out of 14 passes. The Independents snared three out of eight attempts via the air.

The Harvard team took command of the situation immediately after receiving the kickoff. After a long pass was called back Strain, Legionnaire quarterback cut through tackle for seven yards. Dixon held and Harvard's punt on fourth down was partially blocked on their own 45 yard line but a Dixon fumble of the punt allowed Harvard to recover it. The Redmen were placed in a tough spot a moment later when Harvard punted and as Dixon fumbled on retrieving it, the Legionnaires fell on it giving them the ball on the Dixon 20 yard line.

Reds Show Fight

Sterling line play by the Redmen held the invaders on the 20 yard stripe however and Splinters attempt a field goal from the 30 yard mark which failed. After Dixon punted out to midfield the Legionnaires opened a fierce offensive as Jenners ran through tackle 20 yards and Strain cut through for 18 yards more before the quarter ended.

As the second period opened Splinter galloped ten yards to Dixon's seven yard stripe and then plunged to the two yard line where the Redmen stiffened and ended this threat on the one yard marker. Shires Miller then kicked the locals out of danger.

Harvard was not to be denied however and immediately unleashed another determined march. A long pass of 25 yards Splinter to Strain netted the invaders a first down on the Redmen's 10 yard stripe where they pounded their way to the one inch line from which Splinter shoved the ball over the goal for Harvard's first touchdown. The point was converted making the count 7 to 0.

Dixon receiving the ball on the kickoff failed to make any headway whatsoever and the Legionnaires were soon controlling the oval again. The invading eleven moved the ball on passes and runs to the 25 yard line where another attempted field goal by Splinter went low and failed.

Paddy Runs 25 Yards

Shortly after the third frame began Stussy sailed a pass to Jenners on Dixon's three yard line a distance of 25 yards and Minnegan scored the second enemy touchdown on which the conversion point failed as Splinter attempted a wide end run. Paddy McDonald did himself proud by returning the next kickoff from his goal line 25 yards up the field. Shires Miller then kicked the locals out of danger again. This punting failed to help the locals however when another Harvard aerial bombardment reduced the Redmen's defenses to shambles. As the fourth period got well underway Jenners scored the last Harvard touchdown although the Redmen halted the Legionnaires twice on the ten yard stripe.

During the waning moments of the game the only Dixon offensive terminated in a touchdown for the Redmen. Stauffer made the Independents' initial first down of the game by snaring a pass and Shires Miller followed up with a wide end run for another first down. Stauffer then snatched a pass on the Harvard ten yard line and after a series of plunges he caught another short bullet pass over center for the Redmen's lone tally. The conversion was blocked.

PRO GRID LEAGUE VICTIM OF UPSET FEVER OF SEASON

Chicago, Nov. 18—(AP)—The upset bug that has destroyed so many flowering collegiate gridiron hopes this season hasn't overlooked the National Professional football league.

The 1934 champion New York Giants and the Detroit Lions, by whipping the Chicago Bears and Green Bay Packers, respectively, yesterday, accounted for two of the biggest surprises of the campaign.

The Giants conquered the Bears, 3 to 0, at Chicago, after taking a 20 to 3 lacing from the Westerners at New York two weeks ago. Detroit, which absorbed a 31 to 7 trouncing from Green Bay last Sunday, bounced back to trim the Packers, 20 to 10.

New York probably would have had to settle for a scoreless draw, except for a field goal in the third period that Ken Strong, former New York University star, kicked three times because of offside penalties in order to make it stick.

Rain and snow forced postponement of the Chicago Cardinals' game at Brooklyn, and the Boston-Philadelphia contest at Philadelphia.

The standings:

Chicago, Nov. 18—(AP)—Two of Minnesota's fine backs, Clarence (Tuffy) Thompson and Sheldon Beise, today were running one-two in the race for Big Ten individual fooball scoring honors.

Thompson, sensational sophomore halfback, scored one touchdown against Michigan Saturday, boosting his total to 30 points. Beise, senior fullback, accounted for tow touchdowns for a total of 25 points. "Jumping Joe" Williams, Ohio's sophomore star, failed to score against Illinois and dropped out of a first place tie to third at 24 points.

GOPHERS, OHIO STATE REMAIN IN DEADLOCK

Michigan Took Its Worst Big Ten Beating

Chicago, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Warm arguments over the relative merits of Minnesota and Ohio State football probably will be in order after Saturday, the final day of the Western conference season.

As freely predicted two months ago, the Mighty Men from the North and Ohio's Buckeyes seem morally certain of finishing in a tie for the mythical Big Ten title, since they do not meet.

Minnesota needs only a victory over Wisconsin, beaten six times in seven games, to register its second successive perfect record. Only well mauled Michigan lies between Ohio State and a flawless conference season.

In the other three games of the Big Ten finale, Purdue goes to Indiana to battle again over possession of the "Old Oaken Bucket," now reposing in the Hoosier trophy room; Iowa tackles Northwestern's powerful "November" squad at Evanston, while Chicago and Jay Berwanger meet Illinois at Champaign.

Should Fear Little.

Judging from the way they crushed Michigan Saturday, the Gophers should have little to fear from Wisconsin, victorious only once in seven games this season. With almost perfect blocking and ball handling, and a defense that strangled whatever attack Michigan had, Minnesota gave the Wolverines their worst beating in Big Ten history 40 to 0

Probably thoroughly softened up by Minnesota's crushing power, Michigan does not figure to give Ohio State too much trouble in their traditional struggle. The Buckeyes, as expected, had their hands full Saturday against Illinois. Handicapped by a heavy, rain-drenched track, Ohio State conquered the little but stout-hearted Illini 6-0 on a 63-yard touchdown run by William (Tippy) Dye in the first period.

Purdue, regaining its balance after losing to Minnesota and Wisconsin, whipped Iowa 12 to 6. Indiana, clicking offensively for the first time o' the season, blistered Chicago, 24 to 0 for its first Big Ten victory this season.

Wildcats Gain Momentum.

Northwestern, still gaining momentum, scored its second victory in five conference games, over Wisconsin, 32 to 13. A third string quarterback, Ollie Adelman, was the Wildcat hero racing away for three touchdown runs. Northwestern will be the choice over Iowa, and by winning would give Coach Lynn Waldorf an even break in his first Big Ten season.

The standing, conference games only:

	W.	L.	T.	Pct.
Minnesota	4	0	0	1.000
Ohio State	4	0	0	1.000
Purdue	3	2	0	.600
Michigan	2	2	0	.500
Northwestern	2	3	0	.400
Iowa	1	2	1	.333

GRID BLOW-UP THINS RANKS OF THE UNBEATEN

Only Seven Left As Stunning Upsets Ruin Several

BY HERBERT W. BARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

New York, Nov. 18—(AP)—The mad football campaign drews rapidly to a close with only a "baker's half dozen" teams still unbeaten and untied.

The crushing defeats suffered last week by North Carolina, Marquette and Syracuse reduced the field of front-rank contenders for the mythical national championship to seven—Princeton, Dartmouth and New York University in the East; Minnesota in the Middle West; Southern Methodist and Texas Christian in the Southwest, and California in the Far West.

Of these, only Minnesota, aiming at its third successive undefeated campaign, appears certain of winding up with a perfect record. The Gophers close out their season against Wisconsin Saturday. All the others have major hurdles yet to clear, either this week or a little later on.

By sections ,the championship situation seems to line up about as follows:

Tigers Face Dartmouth

East: Princeton and Dartmouth battling in Palmer Stadium in Princeton Saturday, probably will decide the Eastern championship, although the Tigers still will have Yale to contend with, and Dartmouth still will have Columbia in the way. Dartmouth snowed under Cornell, 41-6, last week, while Princeton's substitutes were whipping Lehigh, 27-0. N. Y. U., third of the section's undefeated and untied elevens, swamped Rutgers, 48-0, and now will rest until its objective game with Fordham on Thanksgiving Day.

From the standpoint of tradition, nohting this week will compare with the clash of Harvard and Yale at Cambridge. Army, tied 6-6 by Notre Dame in a thrilling finish before 80,000 spectators in the Yankee Stadium Saturday, will tune up for the Navy game at Philadelphia Nov. 30, in a "breather" against Vermont. Navy, easy victor over Columbia, 28-7, will be idle. Temple's Owls, who stopped Marquette's winning streak, 26-6(will face Villanova, while Colgate, hitting its stride with a 27-0 rout of Syracuse's previously undefeated eleven, takes on Rutgers.

Middle West

Big Six: Nebraska already has clinched the crown and plays only one more game—with Oregon State, on Nov. 28. Kansas has a chance to clinch at least a tie for second place by beating last place Iowa State this week. Kansas State, beaten by Oklahoma, 3-0, plays Missouri in the only other conference game.

South

Southeastern conference: Louisiana State's 13-0 conquest of Georgiat virtually clinched the championship for the Tigers. They ease up against Southwestern of Louisiana this week before closing out against Tulane Nov. 30. Should Tulane, 20-13 victor over Kentucky do the unexpected and halt L. S. U., Vandehbilt, Alabama, or Mississippi would have a chance to share in the crown.

Southern Conference: Duke's smashing triumph over North Carolina 25-0, previously undefeated and untied, put the Blue Devils in an excellent spot to regain the conference championship. They wind up against North Carolina State this week and a Duke victory automatically will give the Durham outfit the title.

Southwest

Texas Christian and Southern Methodist maintained their unbeaten status as the Horned Frogs crushed Texas 28-0 and Southern Methodist first turned back U. C. L. A. 20-0 Monday and Arkansas 17-6 Saturday. If Christian defeats Rice and Southern Methodist wins from Baylor this week, the title will hinge upon the battle of the two main rivals at Fort Worth Nov. 30.

Far West

Pacific Coast Conference: California's Golden Bears, unbeaten and untied, play Stanford's Cardinals, 1934 champions, in the crucial engagement of the week. If the Bears win they will capture the title outright and with it the right to represent the Far West in the Rose Bowl New Year's Day. If Stanford wins, the race probably will end in a triple tie among California, Stanford and U. S. L. A.

Southern California's Trojans, who upset Washington State, 20-10 with a fourth period passing barrage Saturday, will travel east to meet Notre Dame at South Bend.

Rocky Mountain Conference: The leader, Colorado University, after dropping a 12-6 decision to Kansas in on intersectional duel last week, resumes conference warfare against Wyoming and then meets Denver Tranksgiving Day in the game that should settle the championship.

LITTLE 19 MAY DIVIDE TITLE BETWEEN FOUR

Millikin, Knox, Monmouth, McKendree Are Unbeaten

Chicago, Nov. 18 —(AP)— With only two weeks of play remaining in the Illinois intercollegiate conference, four way division of the football championship looms unless Illinois college or Bradley can muster enough strength to upset one of the leaders.

Illinois college will meet McKendree Saturday in the only contest of the week affecting the title race. McKendree has won four games and tied one, defeating North Central last week, 6 to 0. Illinois college has won four and lost one.

Millikin, Knox and Monmouth are listed along with McKendree at the head of the standings, all boasting perfect percentage figures. Knox and Monmouth will meet Thanksgiving Day, however, and another tie would eliminate Knox while defeat would bar either from consideration.

Knox Tied By Bradley

Knox suffered the first blot on its 1935 record last week when held to a 6 to 6 tie by Bradley. The Peoria eleven will met Millikin Thanksgiving Day in renewal of a traditional rivalry, but a Bradley victory would rank as the biggest upset of the season.

Seven members of the loop have closed out gridiron activity for the season, while seven more complete their schedules this week.

The standings:

Millikin	3	0	0	1.000	51	17

When local authorities at the cemetery near Gettysburg, Pa., placed the above sign near the entrance gate, little did they dream of the destruction that would be wrought by firearms on that very spot. On July 1-3, 1863, the most important battle of the Civil War was fought there with enormous loss of life.

NEWS of the CHURCHES

CHRISTIAN CHURCH ITEMS

A large crowd assembled last evening to hear Dr. Royal J. Dye, for many years a medical missionary at Bologne, Africa. Dr. Dye gave a stirring message. His graphic descriptions of pagan suffering will not soon be forgotten. The growth of our work there, where we have forty-two thousand native Christians, is most encouraging.

The Bible school made a good gain in attendance, but has not yet gotten back to the three hundred mark. Yesterday, 266 were present. The adult classes reported as follows: Upstreamers, 37; Frilohas, 35; Men, 34; True Blue, 21; Young Men, 20; Progressives, 18.

The annual One Day Convention under the auspices of the United Christian Missionary Society will be held Tuesday at Lanark. Several from here will attend. Dr. Dye will speak there, being the team leader, and there will be other inspiring speakers.

The Florida class will meet Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Verda Padgett.

All day meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society Wednesday.

The ladies of the church are planning to pack and forward to the Christian Orphan's home at St. Louis, a box of cookies Wednesday. All donations should be at the church by three o'clock.

Prayer meeting Wednesday evening at 7:30.

Regular monthly meeting of the Bible School Workers Conference Wednesday evening following the prayer service.

The True Blue class will give a program at the church Thursday evening to which everybody is invited. A free-will offering will be received and refreshments will be served at the close.

The Progressive class will go to the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Floto, Friday evening for their monthly business meeting and social.

The Triangle club, in charge of Miss Evelyn Graf, will meet at the church Saturday noon for a picnic lunch to be followed by a program.

GRACE EVANGELICAL.

The evangelistic services of Grace Evangelical church are going into their second week with interest and attendance growing from night to night.

Rev. A. R. Buckrop, evangelist, preached from the text, "For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish but have everlasting life." John 3:1. Yesterday morning he used as his directing thought, "The Love of God." The choir furnished the special music

Last night a large congregation was present to hear the evangelist speak on the subject, "Christ at the Door." The scripture text was taken from Rev. 3:20, "Behold I stand at the door and knock; if any man hear my voice and open the door, I will come into him, and sup with him, and he with me." The speaker stated how John, the servant of Jesus Christ, was banished to the Isle of Patmos because of his obedience to Him. While there, alone, God revealed to him the spiritual state of the seven churches of Asia Minor.

During the course of his sermon, he spoke from the letter to the Laodiceans church, as found in Rev. 3rd chapter. He pointed out God's condemnation upon the church; then His counsel to the church and lastly His compassion upon the church.

There were a number of clear decisions at the close of the service. Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Schreiner sang a duet entitled "At the Place of Prayer."

The sermon subject for Tuesday evening will be: A Conscious Hell. On Wednesday evening, the men's gospel team from Clinton, Iowa, Evangelical church, are to be present and sing.

Meetings will be held each night during the week, excepting Saturday, beginning at 7:30 P. M. Intercessory prayer at 7 o'clock. Rev. A. D. Shaffer, the pastor, invites the public to attend these services.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

Splendid audiences came out to hear Bro. Fox in the closing meetings of the Evangelistic campaign. On Saturday night he spoke on "Signs of Christ's Coming." C. J. MacLean led in prayer and after a time of testimony, Rev. Fox spoke. He said: Christ said to the Jews, "Cannot ye discern the signs of the times?" They were anticipating the Kingdom and they refused to believe therefore the Kingdom was delayed and the Messianic Kingdom postponed. We are in the End Time period. In early Christian days the infidel attacks were from without, now they are from within. Today the Archaeologist's Pick and Spade are confirming the word of God. There has been more prophecy fulfilled since 1914 than in the years since Christ went home to glory. We are nearing a culmination. Roger Babson says: There can be no material prosperity until there is a revival of spiritual power." We need to revive the spiritual energy of the church. There are two classes of people in the world. Those who love His appearing and those who laugh at it. Today we hear a great deal of sharing the wealth and the conflict between capital and labor. All the great syndicates are tightening up. Wealth is hoarded and wages withheld and that is a proof that the Lord is at hand. Organized infidelity was never more blatant than it is today. Religion is a thing of the past in Russia and many in these United States are trying to get us to copy Red Russia. The handwriting is on the wall and the world is waiting and getting ready for antichrist. Read I Timothy 3 verses 1 to 13 and you will get a good picture of what the world is like today. Wells says: "society is rotten from the top to the bottom." There are 400,000 convicts at large in the country today and only 160,000 in prison. God built an ark in the beginning of the world and in the end of the world He has given us Jesus. He is the only place of safety."

Sunday morning Rev. Fox spoke to the Sunday school on "Solomon's Four Little Preachers" and in the morning service his subject was "The Model Church of the New Testament." He said: "There is no perfect assembly on earth. No single church lives completely up to the teachings of Jesus Christ but the model is described fully in I Thessalonians I. (1) We must be the children of God. (2) We must be in Christ. He must be our Environment. (3) We must show our Work of Faith. (4) Labor of love. (5) Patience of hope. (6) Our gospel must not be in word only but in power. (7) Joy in the Holy Ghost. (8) We must be a missionary church. (9) We must be eagerly awaiting His return.

Advisory board meets at the parsonage at 7:30 P. M. tonight.

World Wide Guild will meet with Mrs. Henry Busker, 510 West Seventh Street Tuesday night at 7:30 P. M. Members are requested to bring something for the Mission box.

Children's Happy Hour on Wednesday at 4 P. M.

Wednesday at 7:30 P. M. Mid week service for prayer and praise.

Friday at 6:30 P. M. Picnic supper and monthly meeting of the Anoma and Agoga classes.

AT BRETHREN CHURCH

The spirit of the revival meeting which has been in progress the past week at the Brethren church seemed to be in full swing in yesterday's services. The large attendance at Sunday school was a great inspiration and the special number by the children and the junior choir delighted the congregation. The morning message by the evangelist pointed out the unlimited power, beauty and far-reaching influence of God's redeeming love. Kathryn Lehman sang in the morning service.

The packed house in the evening service greeted the evangelist with a spirit of good-will and cooperation. Mrs. Thompson had a story for the large group of children, who have been a great inspiration in this evangelistic campaign. The illustrated hymn, "Rock of Ages" illustrated by the stereopticon was well received. The special number by the Krug sisters also added to the spirit of the evening service. The Bible which was given to the largest family present went to the Henry Whisenand family along with the best wishes of the entire congregation. "What's wrong with the American Home" was the subject used by the speaker who pressed home the sacred obligations of the home to a large and attentive audience.

There will be a special delegation from the Polo Brethren church tonight, and they will furnish the special music. There will be services each evening this week except Saturday at 7:30. A cordial invitation is extended the public.

Obituary

Lizzie Wright Pomeroy, daughter of Edwin W. and Laura J. Pomeroy was born in Bradford township, Lee county, March 12, 1857 and passed away at 12:08 P. M., Nov. 4, 1935 at 422 Crawford Avenue, Dixon, Ill., at the age of 78 years, seven months, and 22 days.

She received her education at the Lee Center Academy and was a graduate of Rockford college. She was married October 26, 1893, to Edward J. Gray of Inlet, who preceded her in death June 27, 1931. They built a fine large home on their farm two miles north of the village of Lee Center and there they lived until March, 1920, when they moved to Amboy. Since Mr. Gray's passing, Mrs. Gray had been spending her winters in Dixon, returning to Amboy in the spring.

Early in life she became a member of the Lee Center Congregational church, serving as clerk, over a period of thirty years. She was also a superintendent of the Sunday school and taught the primary class for many years. She was a loyal member of the Missionary Society in Lee Center and afterward in Amboy. Also the W. C. T. U. in the latter town, always taking a deep intereest in the activities of those organizations.

Mr. and Mrs. Gray had traveled extensively throughout the United States and the latter's wonderful memory and keen powers of observation enabled her to give delightful accounts of their trips.

A devoted wife and daughter, a kind and sympathetic friend and neighbor, she exemplified in her life, her deep and abiding Christian faith, regarding the many changes in life as part of the Divine plan. The memory of her beautiful Christian life and many acts of kindness will be a priceless heritage to her family and friends.

She is survived by a brother, Edwin A. Pomeroy of Lee Center, a sister, Mrs. Mary E. Wright, having passed away August 17, 1924. Also surviving are four nieces, Mrs. Lillis M. Shore of Woosung, Sarah E. Wright of Chicago, Mrs. Helen L. Mann of Chicago, Mrs. Edyth E. Brooks of Denver, Colo., four nephews, Philip E. Pomeroy of Mount Williams, Va., Richard T. BEGIN HERE TODAY

JEAN DUNN delays her answer when BOBBY WALLACE asks her to marry him. At the Golden Feather night club she meets SANDY HARKINS whose business connection is vague. Sandy introduces Bobby and Jean to a MR. and MRS. LEWIS. Bobby sells some bonds for Lewis, who buys a car.

LARRY GLENN, federal agent, is trailing WINGY LEWIS, bank robber. He learns about the bond transaction and questions Bobby. Larry believes the car Lewis bought is armored. Bobby undertakes to find out.

Jean agrees to a secret engagement with Sandy. The bank of which her father is president is robbed, and Larry starts a search for the robbers.

Jean goes to see Sandy who has been injured. He and the Lewises are staying at a farmhouse. She soon finds herself a prisoner. The whole party leaves the farm.

Meanwhile Larry has discovered Jean is with the robbers. He and his men reach the house where the gang is staying.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XLI

WHEN the guard brought Jean Dunn back to the house, she felt as if some queer paralysis of the spirit had descended on her, making it impossible for her either to think or to feel any longer.

She knew the worst, now. She was in the hands of the Red Jackson gang—the most notorious, dangerous and vicious gang of mankillers on the continent—she, Jean Dunn, who had thought it a wickedly-exciting lark to poke her nose inside The Golden Feather night club! She was in their power, and the man she had promised to marry was one of the gang, and there was no possible chance that she could ever get away.

She stumbled along, until at last they came out of the woods into the clearing. The old house loomed up, a dark, insanely-designed shadow against the star-flecked sky, the few lights in its rooms gleaming dimly through the night. Beyond it the surface of the lake was a black pool, lit here and there by a touch of reflected star-shine. A breeze was rising, and there was a gentle rustling of leaves in the trees, a silky wash of wavelets on the beach.

The man conducted her straight to the house and marched her up the steps and into the hall. He stood there with her, his gun under his arm, and waited. A door opened somewhere, and Red Jackson came toward them.

He looked at the guard coldly. "What're you doin' in here?" he asked. "I thought you were supposed to be a lookout, up the road. What's the idea coming in here?"

The man hastily gestured toward Jean.

"Honest, chief, I had to come in," he said. "She was takin' it on the lam up through the woods, and I figured—"

"Oh, you figured," said Jackson. "If I can ever get some of you pinheads to remember that I'm supposed to do the figuring around here . . . well, let it go. Go on back there now, lunkhead, and the next time you find anybody wandering around loose give us a call—don't come in yourself."

The guard departed, obviously relieved to get away with no worse rebuke than this. Jean was left alone, facing America's Number One public enemy.

He eyed her coldly, his washed-out eyes seeming more lifeless than ever in the dim lamplight.

"Just where was you going?" he asked her.

"Back—to town," she said.

"Back to town? What town?"

"Oh—" again she moved one hand in a meaningless gesture. "Any town. I don't know. I just wanted to get away."

He looked at her silently for a moment. "Why?"

"I—I didn't know what I'd got into," she said.

"Oh. And now you do know, you don't like it. Is that it?"

• • •

SHE nodded. Standing under his inhuman stare, she felt that she knew just how a bird felt when it looked, helpless, into the hypnotizing eye of a snake.

"What's the matter with us, anyhow?" said Jackson. "Why don't you like us? We're nice people."

His voice was edged with clumsy sarcasm. She made no reply.

"You like that boy friend of yours first rate, don't you?" he continued. "You went for him plenty, I understand, before this."

Her heart sank, as she realized that this, indeed, was the very worst thing about it; that she had let herself in for all of it by giving way to a senseless infatuation for Sandy Harkins. She had discarded the honest and loyal affection of a youth like Bobby Wallace to cast her fortunes with an outlaw!

She found herself nodding miserably.

"Well, what's the matter, then?" asked Jackson. "He's just as nice now as he was before. Still brushes his hair the same way and wears the same kind of clothes. Looks just the same and talks just the same. You'll get along with him fine. . . . And with the rest of us, too. You just got to get used to us, that's all."

She shook her head. "I can't," she whispered. He looked her over from head to foot with slow, curious deliberation.

"Oh, yes, you can," he said. "I'll tell you this, sister. When you put in with him, you put in with all of us. And puttin' in's a lot easier than pullin' out again. You're stickin', now—for always. And don't forget it."

A door opened, and Sandy himself came into the hall. He looked from Jean to Jackson in unspoken inquiry.

"Your girl friend," said Jackson, "thinks she wants to go home. You talk her out of it. You're kind of gifted, that way." He turned to go, and added in a rasping voice, "Or kick the daylights out of her, if that's easier. I don't care."

• • •

HE went away and left her in the cavernous old hallway, with its dark woodwork, its old-fashioned chandelier and its dim light. Sandy came over and put a hand on her shoulder.

"What's the matter, kid?" he asked.

"I don't suppose," she said, "that it's any use reminding you now you've lied to me and deceived me and—"

"Not a bit," said Sandy blithely. "Not a bit of use. You see, I wanted you—bad. And—"

"And that was the only way you could get me," she said bitterly.

Sandy was unabashed. "You got to take what you want in the only way you can get it, in this world," he said.

"Oh. And you wanted—me."

"Yep. And got you."

He grinned, unexpectedly, and put one hand to his bandaged shoulder.

"This is coming along fine," he said. "In a day or so I'll be as good as ever. Then we'll see if you don't feel like you used to."

He slid his hands covetously along her arms. Her cheeks flamed, and she jerked away from him.

"Don't touch me! Don't ever—ever again!" she cried. She ran for the stairway, expecting to hear him pounding after her, to feel him jerking her back to him. But he only stayed there, laughing at her.

"I'll touch you plenty," he said. "Don't forget, baby—you're in the mob as much as any of us, now. You might as well make the best of it. And the best of it's—me!"

• • •

SHE ran upstairs and fled to the room that had been assigned to her. Once inside, she hastily locked the door; then she dropped on the bed, wishing that she could ease her emotions with a torrent of tears but finding herself utterly unable to do so.

She did not know how long she stayed there, staring up, wide-eyed, into the darkness overhead, while a thousand self-reproaches raced through her mind. At last, unable from sheer nervousness to lie still any longer, she got up and walked aimlessly to the window. There she slumped down on the floor, her chin resting on the window sill.

The wind had risen, and she could hear the waves beating on the shore of the lake quite plainly now. There was a moon, too, peering through a thin cloud-rack and filling the clearing with a misty, ghostly half-light. For a long time she remained there despondently, looking down at the unkempt lawn.

Then, in the shadows beyond the carriage house, a movement caught her eye. She looked more closely. A man was walking around the outbuilding, coming up the path toward the house. There was something familiar about him—something about the way he held his head, the way he walked . . .

He came closer and closer, walking steadily up to the house, and as Jean looked down she recognized him—and thought that her heart would stop beating from sheer, overpowering joy. For the man was Larry Glenn. He held a pistol in one hand, and he stalked up onto the porch, where she could no longer see him, and hammered thunderously on the great oaken door.

"I am a Department of Justice agent, and we have the place surrounded," he called out in a loud voice. "If you'll come out peaceably, no one will be hurt."

There was a tense silence. Then, somewhere below, came the crash of a gun going off, and another, and another. Quick spurts of flame stabbed through the darkness beyond the lawn. Larry Glenn leaped down from the porch and slipped behind a tree trunk near the corner of the house. A racket more intense and fiendish than anything Jean had ever dreamed of split the night air—shots, yells, the evil spat of bullets against stone, the splintering of woodwork, the jangling crash of broken windows—

And then, from sheer excess of nerve strain, Jean Dunn fell to the floor in a faint.

HOME MATERIAL PURCHASED BY GOVERNMENT

Work Projects Will Benefit Nation's Industries

Washington, Nov. 16.—(AP)—American industry and labor had the assurances of President Roosevelt today that the government's policy was to buy domestic materials for works projects financed by it and that there had been no change in that policy.

He made this assertion at a press conference when he was asked if there had been a change in policy as the result of German steel companies bidding under American firms on two projects, one in New York City and the other in Morehead City, N. C.

Obviously aroused, Mr. Roosevelt quickly replied in the ngative and said the policy or purchasing American goods stood where it always had and that any newspaper accounts to the contrary were deliberate misrepresentations.

In addition, the president echoed Secretary Ickes' promise that an investigation of the New York and Morehead City bids would be made to see if there was any evidence of collusion on the part of American companies or of government subsidies which enabled the German manufacturers to underbid.

Labor In Protest

Ickes made the promise to William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, after the latter and a number of industrial leaders had filed strong protests over the award of contracts to foreign competitors.

Labor groups asked that the German contracts be cancelled, but both Ickes and the president said they thought it was too late to interfere.

American companies have been given a 15 per cent differential on their bids in addition to tariff barriers erected against foreign competitors. This has now been raised to 25 per cent.

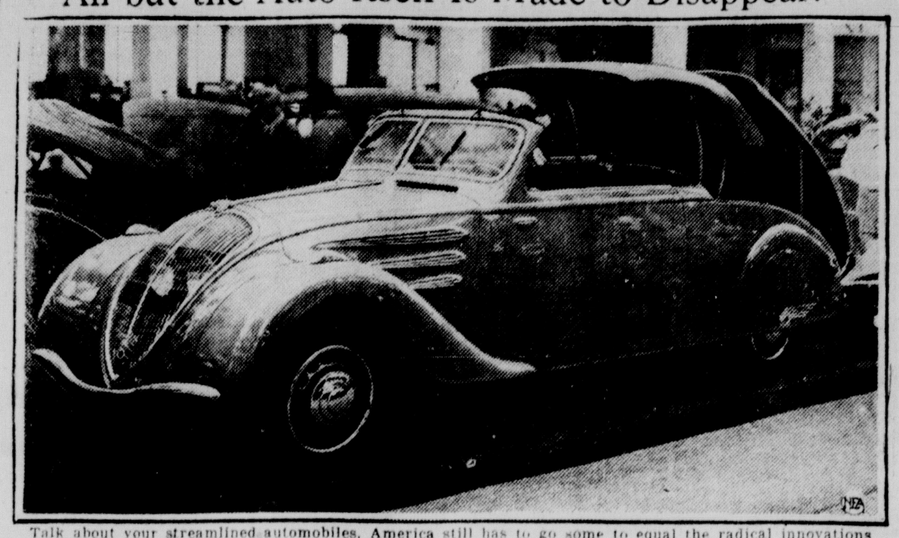
All but the Auto Itself Is Made to Disappear!



Talk about your streamlined automobiles, America still has to go some to equal the radical innovations that appeared on some of the European cars at the Paris automobile show. Here, for instance, is a Peugeot not only with a body that flares off at an acute angle, but with a top that can be concealed within the rear end, and headlights that are hidden behind the radiator grill.

POETS' CORNER

THE RIDE OF L. S. G.
Of Amboy

Now, listen my children—just give me an ear,
I'm going to tell you a story of cheer;
A story not old, and so truthful a tale,
I know you will read every word without fail.

I cannot divulge how I garnered the news.
The fellow who told me—well, guess whom you choose;
Yet still I'm convinced what he mentioned is true,
And now let's record it as history for you.

It seems he's in business—a popular gent—
And hustling always, but never content;
The hours may be languid, laborous, long,
But yet there's a chance that his speech he'd prolong.

His thoughts and his plans left their fingerprints there,
For on his wise head is an absence of hair.
Those eyes have a snap which portends all the vim,
And courtesy, kindness—it all goes to him.

One night as he lay snugly tucked in his bed,
His snoring serene and with nothing to dread,
There came a stern knock sounding right at the door.
He started, awoke and jumped out on the floor.

'Twas business, and business will keep him awake,
No matter how many the hours it will take.
So donning his garments with all of his speed,
He hastened to answer the night-callers need.

A half-mile he had to his office up town;
He rode his son's "bike", so the ride was renown;
Then, after the business was over, it seems,
He swiftly rode home to continue his dreams.

Oh, children, look 'round and you may find this man,
Who hurries, and works more than most fellows can.
He never is idle; he cannot sit still,
Because to be dormant is not in his will.

In sports, as in business, he's after it all—
And cheers when his son gets his hand on the ball.
'Tis said to the gridiron he wended his way.
The referee said: "I'm the boss here today."

And so he departed and back to the crowd,
But didn't give up all his cheering so loud.
He may be defeated, dejected and bound,
But up and alert he is sure to be found.

DAILY HEALTH

INFANTILE PARALYSIS: I.

During the last few years a number of laboratories throughout the country have issued reports suggesting that we are close to the production of an effective vaccine against poliomyelitis, or infantile paralysis. More recently, however, a technical discussion among certain of these experimenters casts a pall of doubt over all infantile paralys vaccines in general.

It has been shown definitely that infantile paralysis is caused by a virus, that is, by an infinitesimally small disease-causing agent. This virus probably enters the nervous system by way of the nerves of smell (olfactory nerves) located in the nose. From the olfactory nerves the virus spreads through the brain tissue down to the spinal cord. The virus appears to have a selective affinity for the motor parts of the spinal nerve system; hence the paralysis.

It is not generally understood by the public that infantile paralysis is a disease affecting a very large proportion of the community, at least of the city population. Only about one per cent of the total cases infected, and mainly those which develop paralysis, are diagnosed as such. The vast majority of cases being mild and without any paralytic symptoms, are not diagnosed or are mistaken for other ailments.

There is therefore evidence in this that the body can develop an effective resistance against the virus of "polio." The question then arises, how can this immunity or resistance be artificially induced? In other virus diseases, for example, in smallpox, immunity or resistance to the disease has been developed by a method of vaccination which employs a modified, that is, a weakened or changed virus. The same is true in the case of hydrophobia.

The principle of the procedure lies in this: the modified or weakened virus is able to engender immunizing anti-bodies without the risk of producing the disease itself against which it is employed.

Huge Machine Here To Dredge the Green River and Laterals

The largest ditch digging machine ever used in this section of the United States was unloaded from the Burlington tracks at Shaw station south of Lee Center this week. This giant machine was bought from the Lima Locomotive works at Lima, Ohio, by Elmer Larson of Rochelle, who has a contract to clear the Green River Drainage district laterals and the old Green river. It has a 50 foot boom and a one and one-half yard bucket. The machine is mounted on a tractor of the caterpillar type which has an apron or tread 36 inches in width and 11 feet, six inches in length, weighing more than 50 tons. The machine is powered with a diesel engine and has a capacity for digging over 1,000 yards of earth in a 10 hour period.

M. E. Fisher, service engineer from Lima, is in charge of the erection of the giant machine. After being assembled, it will be brought overland to the scene of operations near Shaw station where it will proceed with operations through the winter months.

Traveling Around America

POPOCATEPETL

HERE is that famous volcano which has caused the downfall of so many amateur spellers—the hoary-headed Popocatepetl. This mountain, third highest in North America, towers over the quaint little town of Amecameca just thirty-five miles from Mexico City which is on the regular route of the fortnightly rail-water trips to Mexico via the Panama Canal and the Central Americas.

Amecameca is visited each year by hundreds of thousands of Indians for it has the second most sacred shrine in all Mexico—a chapel built on top of a hill around the cave in which four hundred years ago dwelt the saint Fray Martin de Valencia. During Lent every year a passion play is given here which though somewhat primitive is extremely dramatic and at night when torches are used presents a most unique spectacle.

It is from Amecameca that the ascent of Popocatepetl is made. The ascent—17,794 feet—requires about a day and a half, but the descent is speeded up in many places by toboganning down the snow-covered sides on straw mats steered by Indian guides.

REPUBLICANS MENDING RIFT

Chicago, Nov. 16—(AP)—The Republican State Central Committee and the Illinois Republican Citizens Organization apparently were approaching a friendly adjudication of their differences today.

Harold Beacom, Chicago lawyer and a member of the executive committee of the Citizens Organization, said last night he had conferred with Thomas J. Houston, finance chairman of the state central committee, and John F. Tyrrell, another member of the committee, and that the discussion was "very friendly."

"This meeting," he said, "indicates that our full executive committee will meet with the state central committee to the end that our differences will be settled for the benefit of the party generally."

John H. Searing of Carbondale, chairman of the State Central Committee, had challenged the right of the Citizens Organization to speak for Illinois Republicanism and demanded that all campaign funds it had collected be turned over to his committee.

Noted Barrister Dies in England

He was counsel for the board of trade in the Titanic inquiry, and represented the Cunard Company at the inquiry into the loss of the S. S. Lusitania.

He also served as wreck commissioner to inquire into the loss of the S. S. Vestris in 1929.

ADMINISTRATION BEHIND HORNER

Will Support Him For Re-election in Illinois

Chicago, Nov. 16—(AP)—The Chicago Evening American today said that "Washington stands with Governor Horner for re-nomination and re-election."

The "desire of demand," the story said, "has been made known to Mayor Kelly, also to other local Democratic chieftains." As outlined in the story, President Roosevelt's position is:

"Governor Horner has done everything the national administration has asked of him, and in return proposes to give him full support."

"Washington's desire is in effect an order," it said, "especially in view of the fact the federal administration has the giving of tens of millions of dollars in PWA and other funds.

"There is authority for the statement the Mayor received the message as bad news," the story continued, "but he probably will obey and withdraw obstacles to the renomination of the Governor."

Governor Horner announced his desire for re-nomination on "Governor's Day" during the state fair last summer—a gathering which was not attended by Mayor Kelly or Patrick Nash, Chicago Democratic power. Early in September, during the state American Legion convention in Quincy, Kelly cancelled plans to attend after it was announced Governor Horner would speak.

Economic Supreme Court Suggested

New York, Nov. 16—(AP)—A quasi-supreme court of economics is advocated by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace to save American institutions from destruction by guiding their adaptation to changing conditions.

He proposed at the academy of political science's session last night that a council on the general welfare be set up on a national non-partisan basis "to help us discover, formulate and adhere to intelligent, national economic policies."

Such a body, he said, should be guided in its actions by referendums when necessary. It could be composed, he suggested, of four or five of "our most eminent economic statesmen" appointed by the president for overlapping terms.

GET A LIFT WITH A CAMEL!

WINTER SPORTS TAKE ENERGY TOO. But to enjoy the fun you have to be fit. "And that's why I prefer Camels," says Margaret Lynam. "I know that athletes approve of Camels, as they do not disturb their wind. And that goes for me too."

"I AM A STEEL WORKER on the Triborough Bridge," says Ben Parsons, as he enjoys a Camel. "Like so many of the bridge men, I smoke Camels. It I feel tired, I get a 'lift' with a Camel. And Camels have all the full flavor anybody could want."

"An engineer's life," he says, "calls for physical fitness and energy. When my pep is at low ebb, there's nothing like a Camel, for a Camel chases away all signs of tiredness. I always get a 'lift' with a Camel. I have preferred Camels for years because of their good taste and mildness. They never irritate my throat. That's one way you can tell Camels are made from more expensive tobaccos."
